Awards / Accomplishments / Promotions / Appointments

February 2014 Employee of the Month

Officer Terry Hagan was selected as the February 2014 Employee of the Month for his diligent police work, specifically on a theft case he investigated in January. On January 12th, 2014, Officer Hagan took a felony theft report from a male subject who reported that his I-Phone 5 had been stolen approximately six weeks earlier. The victim suspected the phone had been stolen while he was at 36th and Broadway, or from his truck. Even though he had very little to go on, Officer Hagan kept in close contact with the victim following the initial report, and was able to develop leads as to the possible location of the I-Phone. Following up on specific electronic information, including the use of Apple I-Cloud technology and social media application information, Officer Hagan developed two males as individuals tied to the use of the missing phone. Coordinating with additional officers simultaneous interviews of both suspects were conducted, along with follow-up interviews of additional persons to corroborate their stories. From these interviews Officer Hagan was able to recover the missing phone and establish that the individuals involved had come by the phone in a non-criminal manner. The phone was returned to the victim, much to his satisfaction. This type of diligent police work is all too often overlooked because it does not end in an arrest or prosecution. However, Officer Hagan's willingness to stay in contact with the victim and follow-up on any and all pertinent information developed during the investigation is a great example of police officers providing great customer service to the citizens who call upon the department for help.
